Eye exam and preventive care

Did you know that having a regular eye exam could potentially save your life? The eyes are said to be the windows into our overall health. Which is why regular eye exams are not only important for our vision but also vital for disease prevention and the detection of serious medical conditions.

As people age, many take steps to improve their overall health by exercising or eating healthier foods, but eye health is often overlooked. Chronic diseases such as diabetes, hypertension and high cholesterol can be reduced by early identification through comprehensive eye exams.

- An eye exam is a direct tool to identify retinopathy and pre-diabetic risks
 - Impacts 29 million Americans, 4.4 million over age 40¹
- An eye exam can identify hypertension, preventable stroke and cardiac risk
 - 720,000 heart attacks per year²

What's included in an eye exam?

One of the best returns on investment

Pre-testing

The pre-testing process begins when you arrive for your eye exam. Typically, a Doctor Technician (or Assistant) explains, demonstrates and conducts the pre-tests. The Doctor will evaluate the test results as part of the eye exam process.

Pre-testing most commonly found in offices today includes:

- Auto-Refractor
- Non-Contact Tonometer
- Auto-Refractor (Visual Fields)

Routine Comprehensive Eye Exam

After pre-testing has been performed, the Doctor completes the comprehensive eye exam which includes four (4) phases:

1. Refraction
2. Eye Health Assessment
3. Contact Lens Evaluation (if appropriate, not a covered eye exam service)
4. Written Prescription

What is 20/20 vision?

“Perfect” vision

The final written prescription will be the power of the lenses required to correct your vision. Your visual acuity results are documented in your chart by the Doctor as a ratio in the form of “20/20”.

What is 20/20 vision?

The ratio “20/20” expresses how your vision compares to that of a person with “normal uncorrected” vision.

The first number refers to the distance that you must stand from the object to see it clearly.

The second number refers to the distance that a person with “normal” vision is able to see the same object clearly.

In the U.S., a person is legally blind when vision cannot be corrected better than 20/200.

Classifications of visual impairment

Different levels of visual acuity

If your better eye with the best possible eyewear correction is:

20/30 to 20/60	mild vision loss or near-normal vision
20/70 to 20/160	moderate visual impairment or moderate low vision
20/200 to 20/400	severe visual impairment or severe low vision
20/500 to 20/1,000	profound visual impairment or profound low vision
Less than 20/1,000	near-total visual impairment or near total blindness
No light perception	total visual impairment or total blindness
